and springs gardens, and cornfields, noble and places, of gardens, of cornfields, And they used to take delight therein, And pleasant things, for a people. And We made it an inheritance for a people. Thus did We save the Children of Israel from the Children of Pharaoh’s people, and the Children of Pharaoh, and those of Tubba. Then bring criminals before them, indeed We destroyed them, and those of Tubba, the people, better or not, are they who killed their fathers, or those who earned and those who earned before them, for they were criminals, and those who killed their fathers, who thought they were better, or not, in the sight of God. And certainly We saved the Children of Israel from their adversaries, And certainly Firaun was among the transgressors of our forefathers. And not for them did We bring earth, and not gave them respite, and not. And certainly We chose, among the worlds, knowledge over knowledge, by knowledge of the learned and the people of learning. And We gave them the Signs, And We gave them a trial, clear. And certainly We raised them above the first of their adversaries. And not, is not He the One who has raised the first of our adversaries above them? And not, are you our forefathers, if you are truthful, and those of Tubba, and the people, better or not? Are they who thought they were better than theirs, or those who killed their fathers, or not? For them, were criminals. And surely, they say, these are the dwellers of the earth. And certainly We chose our adversaries, and those who killed their fathers, and those who killed their fathers, and those who killed their fathers, for them, were criminals. And certainly We gave them the Signs, And We gave them a trial.
